YESTERDAY'S WORLD OF DIFFERENCE

A new generation comes forth,
A legend forseen through past eyes,
Yesterday's voices still crying from the dust.
Life is created by these cries.
Today stands stately, proud and tall.
Yesterday, hesitant to make good-byes
Ever changing, ever lasting,
A world of difference survives . . .

ACHIEVEMENT

A New Generation Comes Forth...

As the seasons changed, a new generation of students entered Timpview, High School with the sweet promise of success. After vacationing in Utah because of high gas prices, waterskiing at Lake Powell and Deer Creek, suntanning at Deseret and "the club," even working students tried once again to settle into the regularity and confines of a classroom situation.

Students registered for school on August 27th and wondered why they had pre-planned their schedules: when all of the desired classes had been filled as usual, like Gillespie's Parent Ed. and Coach Kauo's Tutorial History. Some of the remaining classes were Gladys Nelson's A.P. English, Coach McKay's Drivers Ed., and Garth Gooch's A.P. Calculus. Nevertheless, students quickly settled into school and were proud to be a part of Timpview's 1980-1981 generation.

A Legend Foreseen Through Past Eyes..

Timpview High School was now in its fourth year of existence, and each student had become a part of its legend. The legend expanded as students witnessed exciting changes take place. Of course, the memories of past graduating classes remained for individual characteristics—the class of '80, thanks to a few select boys who wore nothing under their graduation gowns. But the class never to be forgotten was the class of '81 which was the first four-year graduating class. Past successes were added with new triumphs, and Timpview became the model school used by others to measure their own success.

Yesterdays Voices Still Crying From The Dust...

Timpview in its greatness still had its defeats . . . Flagtwirlers were embarrassed when they dropped their flags, marching band members felt humiliated when they marched out of step, students became discouraged as they failed tests, and varsity football players were disappointed when their hard work didn't bring Timpview more glory. Meanwhile, the outside world was raging. Students studied history while outside their windows others were making it. Iraq went to war with Iran, gas prices reached an all-time high, and Carter proposed to re-enact the draft. Yet, we were among a strong spirited and united group that was destined to change the world.

Life Is Created By These Cries...

Students realized they would only get out of school what they had put into it, and success was no longer taken for granted. The Deseret News awarded Empview High School the over-all sports award, and students knew they earned it. They began striving to excel in the classrooms as well. With constant dedication, students of Mr. Ashby earned the wished reward of wooden creations. Students in EE math were convinced by Garth Gooch that their hard work would result in higher scores on the ACT. Students savored living and continually strived to reach their potential in every facet of life.

Today Stands Statel

Proud And Tall...

g changes were viewed by Timpview in the school year 1980-1981, and there was a world of difference in this year and previous years. New Superintendent John Bennion replaced Sherman Wing. Detective Sheeran was seen sleuthing Timpview corridors. And suddenly, Timpview became increasingly modernized; computers were used in registering students instead of painstaking hand work. Everyone watching registration was amused at the looks on the administration's faces as they puzzled over the computers. Shouts of "Who knows how to work this thing?" were heard over the din of students registering. New faces became a part of everyday school life. Daniel Kluser replaced Al Stumphy who was no longer seen flexing and discoing through the halls. Some despised individual passed a law that required the smoke machine to stay off until 1:00, and the candy machines featured Beer Nuts, Peanut Butter Candies, and Nut Rolls. As Timpview advanced and modernized along with society, Timpview showed that they were intimidated by change but rather stimulated by the opportunity to improve.

Hesitant To Make Good-byes...

As the school year progressed, students realized that their time at high school was running out. Seniors feeling the pains the hardest, realized they soon would be saying goodbye to high school forever. Suddenly these students appreciated high school for what it was and tried to take advantage of its experiences. T-Birds heightened the enjoyment of every-day things by going to 7-11 or Ripples for lunch, sluffing class, or hanging around in the library. The darling individuals sluffed in the commons until they heard the infamous call of Jivin' Jay Nielson's, "Let's go to class you guys!" Senior students made a last dash attempt to start attending class, and in desperation to get a graduation certificate, took the required health and English classes. Freshmen stopped worrying about tardies and realized that it just wasn't "cool" to run through the halls to class. Just as suddenly as the school year had started, it began coming to a close. Finals were held and Paul Fore's chemistry final was known to be the hardest, students signed "There's a World of Difference" yearbooks, graduation commencements took place at Timpview (BYU was reluctant to have Timpview students at the Marriot Center because of the types of refreshment that had been enjoyed the previous year), and good-byes were tearfully made. Students learned to appreciate friendships and the experiences never to be forgotten at Timpview High School.

... Ever Changing, ever lasting,
A world of difference survives...

FALL ACTIVITIES

Oh Boy, David was so contented, he had his sugar sweeties.

Steve hoped his team wouldn't fumble.

Chris Jensen wanted to "packet" up and head home.

GREAT SPIRITS

There were times when cheerleaders needed a lift.

Kathy Ellason reigned.

Barry Adams and Rich Taylor used super spoons to spoon it in.

Once Upon A Time

Once upon a time, the girls at Timpview High School decided that if they ever were to go out with the man of their dreams, they would have to do the asking. And so the preference tradition began. Mr. Lindstrom made a forceful announcement that no boy was to accompany a girl to the dance unless invited with a proper preference invitation. "Rock Candy" provided the music for the dance held in the commons. At intermission slides of skiing were viewed by students who wondered what skiing had to do with the theme, "Once Upon A Time." Chris Young, Todd Carver and Kevin Stevenette proved to be Timpview's most preferred men. (men?) The dance was enjoyed and girls wondered if their knights in shining armor would ever take them out again.

HALLOWEEN

Bruce Pritchett said, "Is it me or my Yoda?"

Hey, don't I look PERT-TY?

Halloween '80 at Timpview was a treat and having fun was no trick. Students "dressed up" for a dance. Jamie Christensen and the boys in their togas ran a close second to the guys dressed as cheerleaders. Vincent Price scared everyone to death in the G rated movie "Terror in the Wax Museum." Students dunked for apples during lunch and the art students displayed carved pumpkins in the commons.

"Now I have everything," Perchik sings.

"Tzeitel, you are to be married."

"What does he think he's doing?"

What do we leave? Nothing much. Only Anatevka.

"A fiddler on the roof, sounds crazy, no?" For students in the play, "Fiddler on the Roof," it didn't sound a bit crazy. Mr. Brower really outdid himself this year in tackling the first musical Timpview had ever done. The performers also set a tradition for others to live up to. John McKellar was the lovable "Tevye." Jenny Caneen played the hen-pecking wife, "Golde". It seemed that the play was chosen for these two, instead of them being chosen for the play! All of the couples in the play did a superb job. Surprisingly enough though, none of the couples started any romances. Another tradition bites the dust! The whole cast worked very well together, both on the stage as well as behind with the difficult set changes. The play came off exceptionally well and the "tradition" of excellence was set.

GIRL'S DAY

One day a year the girls have the day all to themselves. The girls all wore dresses and at half-day all the mothers came to join their daughters. The mothers and daughters gathered in the auditorium for a speaker. Dr. Reid Bradford honored us as the speaker. He stressed good family relations and encouraged self appreciation with his story of Johnny Lingo and his Ten Cow wife. Student Government furnished the refreshments and decorations for the day. The mothers and daughters ended the day with pictures taken of them both.

B.Y.U. demonstrated the art of gymnastics.

No applause, please, just throw money!

There is more than one way to tame a horse!

You're pushing out my eyeball!

BOY'S DAY

"And now for our next contestant..."

Timpview had its own slave auction.

The boys also had the day to themselves. Glen Tucket, head coach at B.Y.U., brought part of his sports program. The boys learned about how different sports were played and how they fit into the B.Y.U. program. A demonstration was given by the mens gymnastics and wrestling teams. Several of the football players were on hand to answer questions or sign autographs whichever was preferred. Student government furnished refreshments.

On Boy's Day the Three Stooges, Larry, Curly and Moe, attended our school.

WINTER Activities

CHRISTMAS

Christmas comes but once a year bringing with it joy and cheer—unless of course you didn't have a date for the Christmas Dance. Of course, for those who went to the dance, things weren't all that "holly jolly" either. It seemed some people's dates disappeared, to be found later talking to someone else's escort. This dance was the first combined dance of Timpview and Provo High, which made it interesting to see who brought what. The programs were green and the punch was orange—if that's any help. The dance and the assembly of Christmas music will always be alive in Timpview's memories (Memories of $100.)

Val Wallace horsed around.

Christmas at Timpview was a paradox.

Steve Olsen and Gary McKellar watched B.Y.U. get shaved.

Pam Jensen decorated her tree.

Gene Hill shakes it.

Trapper John McKellar.

Clay Brown caught the "hail Mary" to give B.Y.U. their first Holiday Bowl victory.

SADIE HAWKINS

Teri Brandenburg forgot to floss her teeth.

Timpview country folk socialize.

Mike Holm and Rene Robinson's kin.

Double dancing.

Sadie Hawkins was not a square dance (even if some were asked to it) but rather it was one of Timpview's finest dances because all the girls in the school got their chance to ask any guy they could get their hands on. (Unfortunately when it comes to finding guys to get your hands on Timpview is a bad place to look.) Once a girl got her guy, it was off to the dance for a night's fun including Timpview's own version of Wedding Chapel. But just like Cinderella, the magic (or the curse, depending on her date) ended at midnight.

Torn between two lovers.

Val Wallace rose to the occasion

Dearly beloved, we are gathered here together...

Let's hare it for the bunny hop!

"How about switching dates?"

Shotgun weddings are tiring.

Overall, the common folk had a great time.

They'll have to beat it out of me.

PEP ASSEMBLIES

SENIOR ASSEMBLY

Teresa Crowley and Lynne Wilkins flaked out.

Kip Rasmussen loved the soft life.

The 1981 Senior Class decided to have a different kind of Senior assembly this year. They wanted to show how they really felt about things and what really happened to people. Kip Rasmussen and Teresa Crowley portrayed a set of twins while Mike Ward and Michelle Duty played their friends. The foursome were inseparable as freshmen, yet as they got older they all drifted apart. In the end they realized who their best friends really were. The Seniors unwittingly did follow tradition; they put on a great assembly.

Kevin Stevenett was head and shoulders above the crowd.

No! No! Who played first base.

"We've been working on the railroad..."

Laureen West plucked her notes.

Judy Ryan was "evergreen" with envy.

Gina Larson wanted a cast party.

Dave Newborn wanted a toss up.

The Junior class was exceptionally talented this year and the Junior Assembly showed it. Gina Larsen set the mood with her song, "I'm the Greatest Star." Judy Ryan also sang the beautiful song, "Evergreen." In the tradition of true stars, Laureen West played the guitar and sang a song that she had written. A barbershop quartet also performed. The members included Ron Baird, McKay Bahr, John Hickenlooper and Rob Dahl. A new comedy team of Baird and Newbern made their debut in the assembly. Dave Newbern also did Solo. He stole the show with his expert juggling and his telling of Provo High jokes. The award winning Sunset Cloggers also performed for us. Many of the members were from Timpview and the Studentbody really enjoyed their performance. Scott Larson made an exceptional M.C. and Gina Larson finished the assembly with an encore of "I'm the Greatest Star."

Valentines Day & Dance

"Take me, Dave. I'm yours."

You got her, Tiger Tom.

.....♥ BE MINE.....

The jitterbug made a comeback at the Valentine's Dance.

Who tripped, Roy and Ewan?

Trina smiled and Taylor twinkled.

Barry Adams was ready for refreshment.

Drinking and dancing could be hazardous to your health.

The "Jesters" entertained well.

Yes, Kathleen Bramhall, she is his date.

It was supposed to be a happy occasion.

Double take, John McKellar?

"Hearts, Tarts and Jesters" marked the annual Valentines dance. Red and white streamers were draped throughout the commons and the walls sported many different hearts of varying sizes. The band "Jester" kept the sweethearts entertained and dancing until the magic stroke of eleven (ten for the Freshmen). "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" was the theme of the dance which turned out to be one of the best attended of the year. Student Government provided the "Hearts and Tarts" and the sweethearts provided a great time.

Spring Activities

Scott Nielson was in a courting mood.

Eric Grimmer shuttered at the thought of spring.

Zack Bigler's gas guzzler enjoyed the mud of spring.

Mike Holm roughed it on the golf course.

Timpview students had one track minds in spring.

Steve Olsen branched out into spring.

Spring fever begins at Timpview just as soon as the basketball tournament ends. The seniors start counting weeks, days, hours and minutes until graduation. There are several signs of spring at Timpview. The commons becomes more crowded during class periods as the temperature rises. The yearbook staff roams the halls looking for pictures to fill this page with spring activities.

The best sign of spring was B.Y.U.'s basketball team handing UCLA their worst loss in 17 years.

Spring was a time for rejuvenated spirits, a time for baseball, track and tennis.

John McKellar and Judy Ryan had "The Best of Times".

Dave Rice, and company, provided musical entertainment.

March 20th marked the first day of Spring but Timpview students had spring fever long before then. As soon as it stopped snowing, Mike Holm and Steve Olsen hit the course for several rounds of golf. The boys and girls basketball teams finished the year qualifying for the state tournaments. Seniors began to count down the days until graduation. The music department had region and all-state. The Drama and Forensics teams worked to reach their goal of state once again. Drill Team Formal fell on Friday the 13th but it was not an unlucky dance. The theme was "The Best of Times" and it was just that. The Seniors got together for the Senior Dinner Dance at Hotel Utah. The very appropriate theme was "Farewell to Kings". Junior Prom rolled around with a theme of "Into the Night". The royalty were: King, Karl Weenig; Queen, Julianna Oaks; Attendants: Katrina Best, Paul Crawford, Allyson Stevenett and Rob Young. Spring gave students a chance to show their spirit.

A Midsummer Night's Dream

"Here come the lovers full of joy and mirth."

"Where shall we go?"

"Our nuptial hour draws on a pace."

"Thou spotted, inconstant man."

"I, being a man of astrology, knoweth that the moon doth shine that night."

"Lord, what fools these mortals be."

"Methought I was enamoured of an ass."

FRESHMEN^{Computer}DANCE

The Seminary would have a fit if they saw this.

Joy Huish jumped for joy.

Rob Boshard was the D.J. for the freshmen.

The freshmen had a dance of their very own this year. It was the yearly computer dance. Each of the freshmen filled out a sheet on the characteristics of his or her ideal partner. The computer then matched up the sheets. When the fated night arrived, the freshmen lined up to see what awaited them for the evening. The dances alternated every other one between computer and free choice. Rob Boshard came back from B.Y.U. to be the D.J. for the evening. There were moans mixed with laughter but overall everyone had a good time.

Mr. Evenson joined the ranks.

Is there a back door?

It was a small world, right Lareen?

Freshmen were lost, as usual.

The excitement of a stag dance showed through again.

HANG OUT CROWD

Dennis Harris, didn't realize his own strength.

"Class? What's class?" asked Tracy.

Phil Rich explained the facts of life.

There were several places at Timpview for students to "hang out." The library had two sets of "hangers," those who studied and those with magazines and newspapers. Some students preferred the Coke and candy machine area affectionately known as "the perch." This year's new hangout could find debaters, dramatists and musicians in the new auditorium wing. There, those elect few hung out in private offices equipped with mirrors, stereos, bean bag chairs and Paul White's refrigerator and bed. What?

Chris Peterson and Dave Piggot thought school meant Readin', Ritin', and Rock-n-Roll.

Some students as well as members of the faculty did everything to prevent getting Anorexia.

Tom Christensen was outstanding.

Timpview had all kinds of people — tall, short, etc. But more interesting than their shape (some shapes are definitely more interesting) were their personalities and their clothes. Some people caused many problems and got into tight situations and some got into tight jeans. There were clowns who entertained us in the commons without even trying. And there were clowns who tried to entertain us but failed (Student Governments noontime activities) (This was written by one of the clowns from Student Government) We had the ciphers who walked the halls alone and we had the clicks who sat and talked only with groups of eight or less.

CALCULATOR CROWD

Like father, like son.

Tammi checked her temperature.

"I still say $2 + 2 = 6$ ".

Found your match yet, Loren Bryner?

"What is this?" asked Del.

How many ping pong balls would it take to fill the Earth? What is the size of the flame of a candle? What is the wind velocity of an unladen swallow? It was questions such as these which tickled the craniums of our fabulous calculator crowd ... no longer frowned upon for wearing calculators on their belts. A new kind of calculator was introduced and worn this year, not on the belt but on the wrist. It not only told time, but had a stopwatch and an alarm. Today's brains experienced a new freedom as they were allowed to enter the social world. But they still remained true to their brains and their studies first.

Oil changing was quite a task for Brad Kirk.

Janice couldn't find her Algebra.

Charlie's Angels tackled another difficult case.

There were a few people at Timpview who were set apart from the rest by where they parked as well as what they parked. These people had more pride than to drive to school in the family station wagon. They had something faster and usually better to look at. Whether it was a modified pickup or a restored 58-vette, it was nice to have something that could wake you up before you got to school.

Ross couldn't find the rattle.

HOT RODDERS

Where were you taking that jeep, Phil Rich?

THE BIG APPLE: STUDENT GOVERNMENT

In past years, the Student Government Class has received a reputation for sitting in the Commons. But that was not to happen in '81 because the creative minds in the class thought up so many ideas that it kept everyone busy almost all the time. For example, the class made hundreds of pom poms for Homecoming, a project so simple anyone could have done it (well, almost any one; Roger Layton's looked more like an airplane than a pom). But all-in-all, the entire class worked hard to make it the greatest year ever!

Debbie Nilsen, planned for tomorrow.

Tracy Duke preferred, and Rob Burr judged.

SCHOOL SPIRIT: DATA DYNAMICS

Stephanie Freeman ruled over the paper.

Becky Shilling lay down on the job.

Steve Leftwich ate with a straw.

The posters advertising school events were made in School Spirit's own secret hide-out located above the wrestling room (no longer a secret). They were also in charge of the marquee, a task which often went thankless especially when the Administration had to censor announcements. (What's wrong with "Bull Puppies"?) What really upset the Club was the time their inkers (paints) were used to paint an unofficial mural on the gym floor.

On the good side, School Spirit hosted the Halloween Dance (and Student-Government activities).

"Disposable, plasticized diapers, particularly Pampers, are a major factor causing diaper rash..." If this piece of evidence sounds a little confusing, you are in the same boat as the majority of Varsity debate teams. The Timpview team of Morris and Lambert read this as the introduction to their Airbags case. Timpview did exceptionally well this year (as usual) and had some interesting experiences, especially on the overnight tournaments. The Dallas airport will never recover after the team discovered the "Who shot J.R." posters. Virginia Slim's Billboards will forever more have an association with Clark Fisher. The team also pointed the "Van" towards the Loyola-Redlands Swing and went like "Hekt". Peltzman showed up first in Dallas, but Loyola marked his return visit. This year was the first one in the new Auditorium Wing. Offices were delegated out and "musical offices" began. In the midst of the shuffle several interesting discoveries were made. One was Varsity the "Mousecott" who resided in the garbage can and dined on codine. Another discovery was that the ceiling fell if you slammed the door, but if you slammed the door the door didn't open again. But the hostages did manage to make it home in time for Thanksgiving dinner. As one final underview, The Timpview Team united together under their new coach and again proved superiority.

WEATHER ?!

What's in the weather? Bright and sunny unless it rains, if you're worried, ask the weather man whether the weather will wither your weather vane. Chuckle of the day: Ha Ha Ha!

Journalism was very concerned with social issues such as the situation of Timpview's Subterranean Mass Transit System, the trash in the Commons and the junkie rodents in the auditorium. They tried not to work themselves into a pickle and to keep the conversation kosher. (It's a pun, get it?) The main activity in journalism was telling private jokes and then getting a letter from Debbie Nilsen who always tried to keep herself above the ill humor. After the lecture, the class would start mutilating Teresa Crowley's folders. (Just kidding, not really!) One person's (no name mentioned Tracy Duke) job was to censor what everyone else wrote. Even so, they still managed to get a creative paper out.

Literary Magazine

The entire staff was very attentive... well Two out of three isn't bad.

The purpose of the Literary Magazine was to record and honor the best academic works of the year. It served as a sort of intellectual memory for the school, and as a showcase for the administration. The magazine was put together by the Creative Writing Class. How Miss Frahm kept her sanity through the year of creative people, we may never know. But she did. (Whether or not the kids did is another story. Roger Layton is a prime example.) They still managed to produce another high quality Literary Magazine for Timpview.

This years yearbook was infected by a new idea, organization. To organize their organization they had a meeting to explain a new system of meetings after which they met again to find out why the meetings weren't working. Eventually everything fell apart and went into chaos and the staff got back to work. Well, some of them got to work but as usual some didn't and on deadline days came the usual panic and rush across the school to Mrs. Oldroyd's room to see if she could make sense of the copy. And of course when you needed a picture from Steve it was at home. Obviously things couldn't have been too serious because you're reading this. Rob Young almost didn't live to read this. He risked life and limb battling carnivorous chickens to complete his photo assignments. Meanwhile back at school Ann and Patty worked many long hours to insure that this book would be the best. Patty faced unbelievable odds trying to keep the rest of the staff out of her desk. Ann had a simpler task but even so she still had to convince some of the staff that the plants in the Art room wouldn't eat them.

We Depend On Service!

Surprise! Timpview school was not kept clean by little elves! Although seldom seen, those responsible for our tidy school were human beings nicknamed "custodians". They had many talents, including fancy maneuvering to stay invisible. They had physical stamina, good memories (which keys fit where), and could put up with our garbage.

Our lunch ladies were really great this year. Not only did they spend six hours daily on our lunches but they stayed active through the hours. One filled her time as a medical secretary. Another had three missionaries to support and worked in a beauty shop. Another was busy with her kids. Yes, indeed, no matter what they serve us, Timp is proud of our lunch ladies.

Much to the students disappointment, daredevil bus drivers got students to school amidst rain, hail and snow. To make the job more difficult they had to fight off irate and obnoxious students. Another obstacle was trying to keep on the other side of town from Lynne Wilkins and her car. Our calm, cool and collected bus drivers drove us wild.

Bus Drivers, Row One, left to right: Sherry Grisby, Simon Benson, Wendy Bell; Row Two: Brad, Joel.

COMPONENTS

Appointed Offices

A lot of us wondered what Supreme Court was and who was on it. Supreme Court consisted of Quintin Gray, Rob Burr, and Eric Bluth. Really, the main objective of having it was just for experience, although quite a bit was accomplished. Supreme Court was in charge of running all the elections and counting out the votes. In addition to interests in government, Quintin liked basketball, and racing; Eric enjoyed singing and Forensics; and Rob was in Orchestra and Band.

Barbara Barnes did a good job with Social Relations. She knew how to follow through on assignments and helped make the year a success.

Business Manager, Meridee Freeman, had a knack for getting work done. She put all her energy into accounts and kept bank statements balanced.

Studentbody Secretary, Marcie Bowman, was in charge of the Historians Book as well as taking notes for Student Government. She also did Highlights.

We had some great assemblies this year and a lot of credit goes to Teri Brandenburg, Assembly Chairperson, and her assistant, Tami Webb, they had pizz-az!

There is a world of difference in school now that I'm a Junior. I can't get over the strangeness of going to a Pep assembly and seeing friends that are my age as the main cheerleaders, or seeing guys on the football team that I know. As a freshman, I looked at those so involved as "big, mature, Juniors" and it seemed like a part of some other world that I'd never know. Now when I go to the Pep assemblies and football games, they seem to come alive. I'm more a part of these activities because I know some of those involved. What's funny is that I no longer see them as "big, mature, teenagers," but as wild, crazy, and special friends.

The 345 best students this year, compiled the Junior Class. The Class consisted of 169 boys and 176 girls. The Class of 82 ranged from a third with blue eyes and blonde hair, to a half with brown eyes and brown hair. The remaining third we won't talk about. Of the 345 total Juniors 269 of them could be found wearing jeans on any given day, except of course Wednesday, which is the unofficial dress day. We know these statistics to be correct, since over three-fourths of these dedicated denims also wear the commons carpet on their hip pocket.

Participants at Boys' State were questioned about what it was really like and Steve Olson, looking back, said, "It was fun." Tom Christensen explained, "The best part of it was meeting new people and making friends," and Chris Young said that "It was a unique experience at Boys' State, but where were the girls?"

The girls' answers were a bit different from the guys'. They were interested in politics and wanted to meet lots of people. Marcie Bowman was a mayor. Jeanette Clark won a county office. Jean Nielson was in the House of Representatives, and Kristina Harrison just worked hard. The only problem was that they were not allowed to notice the boys.

Seventeen Timpview girls worked long hours before, during and after school to finish their tailored wool suits for regional competition at Spanish Fork High School. This may not sound too impressive, but did you realize that at least 200 hours went into the making of every suit? Mrs. Warner observed that "It is nice to be able to make something that fits better and looks nicer than something you can buy." Trina Best won first and second places in the Senior division at region competition with her dress and coat that she designed. (She also took third place at state competition held at Hotel Utah.) Nicole Price won first place in the Junior division at region, Lisa Heckmann captured second, and Sara Midgley and Kris Nelson were third place.

PTA AND THE BOOSTERS

Besides asking for $1.00 for a lifetime membership the P. T. S. A. does hours and hours of volunteer help for the school. For example, they are the culprits that call your home to check up on your absences. They initiate funds for scholarships and grants for students. The P. T. S. A. is sorely needed especially in the era of belt tightening budgets in the educational system.

The boosters club was more than a group of old men wearing hunter orange windbreakers to sport activities. They helped defer some of the costs of the sport programs by sponsoring a pancake breakfast and selling their hunter orange jackets.

Mrs. Burr and Mr. Beck Initiated Friends of Timpview.

The Friends of Timpview is an organization headed by Carol Burr and Brent Beck. The organization was introduced at the beginning of the 1980-81 school year. It is comprised of people who donate a certain amount of money to the school. The money was used for scholarships, student and teacher seminars, and other items that were not covered in the regular school budget. The money is very beneficial to the school because of the limited budget. The Studentbody and the Administration are very appreciative of this support.

....Timpview's Fight For TRADITION

Timpview Conduct Sad

Editor, Herald:

I had occasion to observe the post-game activities of the teams at the recent Holiday Classic at the Marriott Center on Brigham Young University's campus — in particular, the actions of Timpview's team after the final game on Tuesday night.

May I say it was in keeping with the conduct of that high school's graduating class of 1980.

On that occasion, I was, again, in a position to be aware of the result of having members of that school's student body in the Marriott Center.

May I say that that conduct reflects poorly on the caliber of people who have students at Timpview. Those youth show great disrespect for self, for fellow students and administrators who must share the blame by association, for parents, and for others property.

Their disregard for the results of their actions leaves behind a very negative reputation about the school, students and the parents of those students. It gives me cause to wonder about the physical condition of Timpview High School.

It seems to me that people can do as they choose with their own property, but ought to evidence a little concern about actions that infringe upon others in any way. I hesitate to draw hasty conclusions or to make statements without corroborative facts. But since I'm informed that Timpview students are generally from more affluent homes, I only wonder if having financial means exempts one from behavior generally accepted as correct and from having to answer for such breaches of responsible conduct.

Timpview Comments Unfair

Editor, Herald:

This is written in response to the letter written by Lynden S. Vickery of Springville.

He made insinuations about the students and particularly the basketball team at Timpview and I'd like to know just what he's talking about.

After the championship game of the Holiday Classic, the team went to their locker room where they had a meeting with the coaches, lasting about 20 minutes, then showered and went home. The coaches were with the players about 11:30 p.m.

What did Mr. Vickery see that the coaches didn't?

It's a popular notion that Timpview has a more affluent contingency; but if he would use a little logic and look at the school boundary maps, even Mr. Vickery could see that such is not really the case.

We have occasion to attend many activities at Timpview throughout the year and without exception I have been impressed with the conduct of the students there.

They are friendly, mature and fun. I really enjoy visiting their beautiful school and mingling with the students.

Last Spring, we attended a "roast" put on by the student body officers. That was a time then they could have put down other people or schools, but they didn't. It was the funniest and cleverest thing I've seen for a long time. I thought it showed the integrity and "class" of the Timpview High School student body.

I resent Mr. Vickery's insinuations as I know the basketball team personally and I think they're great. If he has a particular incident to speak of, I think he should identify that or keep his mouth shut about the fine students of Timpview.

EDITORS

Obviously, being an editor isn't all fun and games. In the course of a day many odd things happen. Here is a day in the life of the yearbook editors. First, the editors wake up; Patty at 5:30, Ann at 6:30 a.m. (No, Patty is not vain, she has an early class.) Both of them madly rush to school because yearbook starts at 8:30. But before they can go into the yearbook room they, along with the rest of the staff, must sit in the hall for ten minutes. Once in the class room, Ann tries to "organize" (yell at) the photographers. If it's a deadline day no one goes to any classes, so the teachers hate the staff, but they're afraid to do anything for fear of having the staff retaliate by putting their baby pictures on the cover. Confusion begins to spread towards noon as the editors haven't had a chance to eat, and Tom spills orange juice on Ann. The layouts are found to be lost, then found, then lost again. Roger Layton is found asleep in the office and Ann tells him he's decadent. Patty cuts her fingernails with an exacto knife while under the influence of rubber cement fumes. Somebody tries typing with one finger but gives up when Ann calls them Neanderthal. Towards afternoon the staff's attention turns to the obviously missing photographers. In the world of photographers Erik is unique. Erik can get a photo out of nothing and you can get nothing out of Erik's photos, but then you can get nothing out of Erik. About this time Steve O. walks in with coffee and a Winchell's donut. When asked about the desperately needed photos he replies, "It's at home." Ann looks as though she is about to go profane or insane, but Mike Holm saves the hour by saying that Steve's a stud. Ann doesn't swear, she simply looks depressed and says, "My femurs hurt." Somebody decides to call Gary at Allen's Supersave for the fortieth time, where he is busy bagging the milk on top of the bread. Anne Woodworth is in the hall with whom? At 4:30 p.m. the work is finished but time is running out. The editors have only until 5:00 to get to the Post Office but, of course, Ann's car is out of gas, and once it's stopped it won't start again. Patty has an answer to the problem. She buys a snickers and then calls her favorite mechanic, who comes and takes Ann, Patty and the yearbook to the Post Office, leaving Ann's car at the gas station. Upon arriving at the Post Office, they find, to their dismay, that they are six cents short. So, after much pleading, they talk the nice postman into giving them an IOU, which of course they paid back the next week. Then they returned home after a hard day at the office, knowing that all is well and that the yearbook will get done in spite of it all.

As editors, we would like to express our appreciation to those members of the staff who contributed of their time, energy, and themselves. Our deepest gratitude also goes to Mrs. Oldroyd and other faculty members for their help in any way. Linda Peterson deserves more thanks than anyone else. Whether it was staying at school till all hours of the night or day, or letting us invade her house for a party, she was always there and supported our efforts. Without her cooperation and advice, this book would not have been possible.

Sincerely,

Ann Woodbury Patty Fortier
